BEARGRASS RAILWAY SUBURBAN LINES

BY MARY KNIGHT ROGUE.

"When your spirits are ebbing low,
And you feel that you must go—
Not for months to recreate,
Just a ride to rejuvenate."

Then the better part of value—in fact you could not find a better tonic—would be to take a car on one of the suburban electric lines of the Beargrass railway traversing Jefferson county, and as you are whirled over the road take invigorating breaths of fresh air, and note the beauties of the landscape and the points of interest along the route.

When the ride is finished your spirits will—if nothing more—have risen to the point of appreciating the facilities at hand, made possible by the energy and thriftiness of home industry, and the beauties of the landscape. Surely the charm of scenery and the points of interest to be noted can not be surpassed outside of Jefferson county.

And at this, the most fascinating and gorgeous season of the year, it is a privilege and a joy beyond compare to be permitted to feast our eyes on these things.

For when—
"With a sober gladness the old year takes up
His bright inheritance of golden fruits,
A pomp and fragrance fill the splendid scene."

Four Divisions.

The Beargrass railway is composed of four lines or divisions. The Jefferson town line, the Prospect line, the Orell or Salt River division and the Okolona line—all under the jurisdiction of the Louisville City Railway and operated from the terminal station on Green street between Third and Fourth.

The first line to be put in operation was the Jefferson town line, the first trip being made May 2, 1903. Next was the Prospect line which made its initial trip Oct. 5, 1904, and the Salt River Division to Pleasure Ridge Park, about the same time as the Prospect line; afterward it was extended to Valley Station and then on to Orell. The Okolona division was put in operation last.

Under the able management, Mr. T. H. Minary, "Chief of Staff," Mr. J. T. Funk, Superintendent, and Mr. J. Fishback, assistant, the people of Jefferson county have much to be thankful for in the service rendered by these lines, and the convenience and pleasure afforded therefrom. The cars are commodious and comfortable, having separate compartments for the "colored brother." But, alas! he spreads or distributes himself over the whole. However, of that more anon.

The Beargrass Railway also has a freight and express department attached to all of its lines, where goods of all kinds are handled with care and dispatch. Mr. R. H. Wyatt is the efficient and accommodating head of this department.

The Okolona Division.

The Okolona line, running almost due east out the Preston street road, is the shortest of the four lines, having a length of nine and eight-tenths miles; but is by no means least in point of interest.

When we leave behind the dust and din of the busy city we step up and take note. Our attention is first attracted by an old shell of a house, a relic of "ye olden times," which, if it could give voice to knowledge possessed, would, no doubt, tell many an interesting "tale of by-gone days." Then we pass old Fort Hill, one of the strongholds of the pioneers, where rest in unknown graves many men and women who, with their life blood, paved the way for our enjoyment of this beautiful territory. Next we pass St. Stephens cemetery where is laid many a worthy soul, with hands clasped upon his breast:

"Hands that the rod of empire might have swayed,
Or walked to ecstasy the living tyrant."

On inquiry we learn that these places are now all within the city limits. The first place of interest in the county proper on this line is Beth Shalom cemetery, the Jewish burying ground. It is beautifully situated and well kept, with an attractive stone entrance and lodge overgrown with vines. If alone is worth a ride on this line. Near by, or attached to it, are the four lines, are kept flowers to strewn upon the last resting place of those within this lovely "city of the dead."

"Beautiful flowers that are given
To remind me of the City of the Dead."
On this line are the homes of several dailymen. We did not have an opportunity of "inspecting the premises," but judging from outside appearances they were well kept; and the large droves of cattle standing under the shade of the trees, chewing the cud, some with almost overflowing droves, waiting to be robbed of the lactal fluid, gave an idea of peace, plenty, rest and contentment. And there is the "old church in the vale," wherein, most likely our grandfathers worshipped.

"Medicine I see each childhood friend
O'er the sacred call."
The school-house is deserted. It being Saturday, the teacher and pupils have hid themselves off to other places and other pastimes, and, therefore, there are no "new ideas about" with it.

Glancing to the right as we speed along we observe as lovely a bit of pine woods as could be found anywhere, even in the Pine Tree State. It is a "happy home." "It were a man of means and poor health, or robust constitution for that matter—instead of taking myself off to the pine woods of Georgia, or some other place of the way corner of the globe, I should try to house this enclosing bit of territory of Jefferson county, and build me a home thereon."

Near Durrett's Station is the old Standfield place, now the residence of Dr. W. O. Bailey who married the widow of Dr. Standfield. Edgewood, just across the road from Mr. L. P. Barnard's, is also on this road, and with its arched gateway to the driveway or approach which is shaded with a row of beautiful trees on either side, is one of the most inviting places one could find anywhere.

The view all along this line is attractive. To the east the land is for the most part, level, and the better part of it laid out in farms and gardens, showing some fine corn, etc., and good garden truck, and these are interspersed with patches of woods where the foliage touched by the frost is just beginning to show bright hues. And, oh! the fields of golden rod with full tops glistening in the sunshine, and the white top, and the iron weed with its bright magenta blossoms, and the beautiful blue ageratum. How beautiful the national colors blended as no earthly artist could blend them.

To the west may be seen Jacob Hill, with its forest-crowned top towering heavenward. Also Highland Park, a thriving suburb, one of the county's "busy corners," and Douglas Park are within the range of view.

It is along this line that we see the typical "farm in a cottage." Neat, comfortable, well-kept cottages. Reaching Okolona we find a small "cluster" of houses, and at the end of the road, a little farther on, a nesting place with benches under the trees, the semblance of a park, which could be made one in reality, with the stately oak and the magnificent beech already in place; and, best of all, perhaps, as fine mineral water as ever gushed from the earth—cool, fresh, pure and palatable.

As we turn to go to the gorgeousness of the western sky starts our lips repeating lines from the "Sunset City," by one of the most gifted of Kentucky poets—Rising.
"I saw a strange beautiful city arise
On an island of light in the sapphire sky
When the Sun in his tyrant dress
Laid a shadow of God footed down to the west.
A city of clouds, in a moment it grew
On an island of pearl in an ocean blue:
And spirits of twilight, eager to stray
Through those palaces reared from the ruins of day."

The Prospect Division.

Now, Ho! for the scenic or Prospect division, which covers twelve and three-tenths miles from the terminal station to Prospect, at the end of the line, and running its whole length within an average of five hundred yards of the Ohio river.

Here, besides the scenic scenery, is almost beyond compare, is the most beautiful and charming country home section in Kentucky. The price of land in this part of Jefferson county ranges in value from $300 to $1,000 per acre at the present day. There are signs of wealth on every side, indicated, not only by the magnificent residences, the majority of which are situated on beautiful and three-tenths miles from the terminal station to Prospect, but by the approaches to these homes, which are as attractive as those of Saratoga, New York, one of the "garden spots of the world."

After passing the city limits we come first to the Country Club Hotel, perched high up on the side of a hill. Here, a week or two back, two hundred and forty guests, members of the Banker's Association in session in Louisville, were entertained in one evening.

Next in order come the golf links, the water works and the Boat Club. A little farther on is Mocking Bird Valley, where is the summer home of Mr. L. R. Atwood. Near Callahan's Station are the homes of James and R. L. Callahan, J. H. Caperton and L. H. Wynand, also have splendid residences on this road, besides a host of others whose names can not be recalled at this moment.

Near Glenview, the most attractive stop on this line, are the elegant homes of Alex. P. Humphrey, Henry Strater and Chas. Ballard. S. Thurston Ballard, whose home was destroyed by fire about a year ago, is living in a large frame house, beautifully situated—I have forgotten to whom the property belongs—while his palatial stone and steel, fireproof residence is in building. This gentleman also has one of the handsomest gardens to be seen in the county. There is the stock farm of G. Letterie and son. If I mistake not these gentlemen took some of the premiums offered for fine stock at the 1907 State Fair, recently closed. S. J. Buford's residence is in prospect. The church and the county school are also in evidence on this line. At the two stone quarries the men and machines are busy at work these fine autumn days.

The Prospect line crosses Goose creek and Harrod's creek. The last named, the mecca of many as Isaac Walton, of Jefferson county, who has not the time, or is disinclined to go farther to cast a line to woo the "finny tribe."

At Harrod's Creek there is quite a little town. The telephone exchange, postoffice, general store, blacksmith shop, residences, etc. At Prospect, also, we find the fundamentals of a town, including a bank. Besides the elegant residences along this line there are some comfortable homes of the "men of moderate means," that are not to be scoffed at.

To the lover of nature, however, over and above all the man-made attractions and points of interest along the route of the Prospect line, is the beautiful natural scenery of the country. To the west, when the river, our "La Belle Rivier," is not in sight, there is the line of blue haze indicating its course, with the Indiana knobs in the background; white to the east are wooded hills, with roads winding gracefully to the very tops, cliffs and overhanging ledges of rock, and all of this garnished with a profusion of wild flowers and trailing vines—Why will people go thousands of miles across the ocean, or to the Pacific coast, out of their own state, or even out of their own county, to find the "good things of earth" before they have made acquaintance with what is nearly every in their very doors?

(To be continued next week.)

PAINFUL ACCIDENT

Mrs. Ellen Gahan, Sister of Mrs. J. H. McCrory, of Pleasure Ridge Park, Shoulder Dislocated.

Pleasure Ridge Park, Oct. 10.—Mrs. Ellen Gahan, of Louisville, who is a sister of Mrs. J. H. McCrory, of Pleasure Ridge Park, was painfully injured as she was getting out of a carriage at the Hunters Trace Station Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. Mrs. Gahan had been spending the day with her sister, Mrs. McCrory, and was returning home when the accident occurred. Just as she was alighting from the carriage the horses started and threw her to the ground. The fall dislocated her right shoulder and bruised her considerably about the body. It was some little time before she gained consciousness and it was feared she had been injured internally. Dr. Ben Carson, of Louisville, was telephoned for and Mrs. Gahan was taken to her home in the ambulance. Dr. Carson says Mrs. Gahan will be confined to her home for a week or more, but he fears no serious results.

Entertained at Glenview.

Pleasure Ridge Park, Oct. 10.—Mrs. Clay Patterson entertained informally at her home, Glenview, on Monday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock, in honor of her niece, Miss Sallie Patterson, of Birmingham, Ala. The house was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and potted plants and delightful refreshments were served. About fifty guests called, and Mrs. Charles Cox, of Shively, and Mrs. Robert Stoenestret, of Valley Station, assisted Mrs. Patterson in receiving her guests.

FOURTEEN

Sites From Which To Select Home of Kentucky State Fair Have Been Submitted to State Board.

ONE NEAR JEFFERSONTOWN.

Fourteen sites from which the State Board of Agriculture will select a permanent home of the Kentucky State Fair, were submitted last Friday. The tracts of land that have been proposed as a site are situated variously in the west end, the east end and in the southern portion of the city. From these sites the site committee will select one or more and submit them to a meeting of the board with recommendations, through, according to Secretary R. E. Hughes, the members of the board at their meeting will take up every proposal. About October 23 or 24 a meeting of the State Board of Agriculture will be called and the permanent site for the accommodation of the State Fair visitors provided the fair is located in the east end. He also agreed to make arrangements for the shipping of freight at low rates.

Three of the proposals are for sites in the west end—the McDonald tract, near Shawnee Park; the Vogt property, west of Eighteenth street and south of the Cane Run road, and the Bonhannon tract, on the Illinois Central railroad on the Eighteenth street road.

The other six proposals are for sites in the southern section. The proposals are for the following pieces of property: a tract of land midway between the Eighteenth street and the Illinois Central railroad, and the Illinois Central railroad; the John B. Gheens property, south of Douglas Park, on the Louisville and Nashville railroad; the Arbogast property near Churchill Downs, and the Moorman tract at Valley Station.

Anxious that the State Board of Agriculture should purchase the Arbogast place if it were possible to get it at a reasonable price, the business men of Louisville are drawing up a petition, which will be submitted to the members of the board, urging them to make the Arbogast tract the permanent site of the Kentucky State Fair. Main street men believe that this tract is the best available site, because of the fact that it is situated on a continuation of the principal thoroughfare of the city, and has excellent railroad facilities.

In the death of Mrs. Susan M. Warner, who died last Friday morning in Louisville, the world loses one of God's most noble creatures—a woman who has been a friend and comfort to the poor, unfortunate and misguided of a wicked city. Her life has been a comfort and an inspiration to men and women of every walk of life. At the funeral service flowers of a single rose from the humblest to great profusion of wreaths from the wealthiest was a silent testimony of the great love in which she was held by all. She visited the "fatherless and the widows in their affliction" and surely her's was the "pure religion and undefiled before God."

BUECHEL.

RIGHT OF WAY

For the Glenview Water Pipe Line Has Been Secured—Will Greatly Increase the Value of Property.

Harrod's Creek, Oct. 14.—The complete right of way for the Glenview Water Pipe Line has now been secured. The company is chartered under the laws of Kentucky for the purpose of laying a pipe line from the new filter plant in Louisville through Reservoir Park, the property of the Louisville Water Co., along the Brownsville road, through the farms of R. S. Veesh, P. P. Hustan, Jno. S. Waters, Alfred Branders, Mrs. H. C. Anderson, Peter Lee Atherton and Thos. F. Smith to Glenview on the Prospect electric line, and securing water for the members of the company and others along the line who may wish to tap the main line. The pipe line, when being a great convenience, will add materially to the value of property through which it passes.

Interurban Builds Sidewalks.

The Beargrass Railway has greatly beautified their property on the public square by building up brick pavements around their waiting-room and across the street to the Jones Hotel. This is a step in the right direction. Let the good work go on.

Box Party.

Miss Evelyn Hilt will give a box party at the home of Jordan Brooks, on the Fisherville and Anchorage road, Saturday evening, October 19. Proceeds will be used for the benefit of the Popular Level school of which Miss Hilt is the teacher. You are all hereby invited.

Strawberries in October.

John A. Winand, who lives about two miles west of Jeffersonton near Dravo's Station, sent to The Jeffersonian a fine bunch of juicy, ripe strawberries. Mr. Winand says he has had ripe strawberries ever since the first of June. Can you beat this?

He has one acre of strawberries, from which he realized $500 the past summer. The entire Jeffersonian goes to thank Mr. Winand for his kindness in sending the berries.

One Hundred New Dry.

Another county in Kentucky was voted dry during the past week. In the local option election in McLean county the temperance people were victorious by a majority of 1,053. There are now 100 counties out of a total of 119 in Kentucky in which liquor is legally sold.—Danville Advocate.

Little Maude Miller Improving.

Dr. A. Morgan Vance thinks there is now a chance for improvement with Little Maude Estelle Miller, the seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. K. Miller. She has been at the Children's Hospital for more than six months with white swelling in her limbs. It has been said that there is now hope of her recovery. She has stood it all with great patience.

Handsome New House.

One of the handsomest residences and store-rooms in this part of the county is the one just completed by Geo. A. Hoke, the well known wall paper hanger of this place. The concrete frame in front of the building adds much to the looks of the building and the town. The work was done by W. T. Buchanan and appears to be first-class. Mr. Hoke expects to remove his family in his new home in a few days.

Mr. Clem Promoted.

J. N. Clem, manager of the Cumberland telephone exchange at this place, has been given the management of the exchange at St. Matthews with the same company, P. M. Brown, the former manager, having accepted a position as night wire chief with the Cumberland in Louisville. Mr. Clem will remain in Jeffersonton, as he will have charge of both exchanges. This is a well deserved promotion and his many friends here are glad to learn of his success.

Mr. Brumley Improving.

William Brumley, the well known dayman, who had his breast bone fractured and several internal injuries inflicted by a maddened bull last week, was taken to St. Anthony's Hospital in Louisville, where an operation was performed by Dr. L. A. Blankenbaker, of this place. The operation removed the obstruction from the bowels, which had been caused by the goring received from the horns of the bull. At first it was feared Mr. Brumley would not recover owing to his advanced age, but he is reported as doing nicely and, on the road to recovery.

Birthday Party.

A delightful party was given Tuesday of last week at the home of the Misses Schoening in honor of Miss Freda's birthday anniversary. LAND, STOCK AND CROP.

D. D. Finley purchased a lot 50x26, situated at the edge of town, from J. P. Frederick this week and will begin the erection of a barn 32x36 feet at once. He will also build a residence on this lot in the near future. The price paid was $100.

J. Twemley leads the sheep raisers this year, says the Harrodsburg Herald. Out of 37 ewes he raised 67 lambs and sold 47 of them, average 92 pounds, to W. J. Hanna at 7 cents a pound. The wool and lambs from each ewe netted him $13.25.

D. Eads sold to Mrs. Rice, of Casey, a pair of sorrel mules for $400. He sold to J. L. Johnson 400 feeders at 41.2 cents. Morgan Beasley sold to Beasley Bros. a lot of new corn at $2.50.—Interior-Journal.

Hart Wallace has sold to Hartman Stock Farm, of Columbus, O., fifteen registered Jersey cows at $150 each, and nine heifers at $100 each. The cows are for practical dairy use and not show stock.—Shelbyville News.

Malott, Oct. 14.—Rufus Wheeler has bought of Charles Martin a tract of land and is erecting a house on it.

The disposal sale of the famous herd of registered Jersey cattle owned by J. A. Middleton, of Shelbyville, which was held last week, was well attended, a large delegation from different states being present. The average for sixty-one head, including the cheap bull calves, was $198.25. Fifteen bulls averaged $112, and forty-six females averaged $224. The top price was paid by T. W. Bernheim, of Louisville, who purchased the seven-year-old cow, Nobleman's Lady Mary, for $1,650.

T. B. Miller, near town, has a remarkable cow, says the Larue County Herald. Last week Mrs. Miller, as an experiment, churned one pint of this cow's milk in a quart jar. After the butter had been thoroughly worked, Mrs. Miller took it to town and had it carefully weighed on computing scales, at the rate of 26 cents per pound, the price paid for butter fat by the Hodgenville Creamery Co., and the result showed 31 cents' worth of butter churned from the pint of milk, which equaled 26 cents per gallon for the cow's milk.

Harriet M. Tucker Hoke.

Harriet M. Tucker was born near Louisville, Ky., Feb. 18, 1830, and died at her late residence in Hutchinson, Kan., July 12, 1907, aged 77 years, months and 24 days. It was in this section, near Louisville, Ky., that she spent her early life and was married in 1847 to C. Hoke. In 1859 she left Kentucky with her husband and settled in Adams county, Illinois, where they lived until 1890 when they moved to Kirksville, Mo. It was in Kirksville that in 1897 they celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their married life and the next year Mr. Hoke was called into the great beyond and thus fifty years of companionship was severed to be reunited only yesterday at the better land. Into the home made by this marriage tie which lasted so long and so well there came eleven children to bless and comfort the parents. Of that eleven, three have gone on before the mother to be present at the great welcoming reception on the other side. There still remain on this side of the river of death eight children to mourn the death of the beloved mother, J. S. Hoke, W. E. Hoke, W. H. Hoke, of Denver, Colo., Mrs. F. E. Smith, of Hutchinson, Mrs. M. G. Chase, of Partridge, Mrs. Amanda Clarkson, Anna C. Morris and Mrs. Ella Crawford, of Greeley, Colo., and Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson of Kirksville, Mo. All were here at the time of the death except Mrs. Johnson, who on account of sickness could not be present.

Grandma Hoke became a member of the Christian church at the age of fourteen, and has remained a loyal member of the great body of Christ from that day to the day of her death. During her residence of six years in Hutchinson she has been one of the most faithful members of the Christian church and one of which that church has been justly proud. She never missed a prayer meeting and never a church service if the weather would permit her to be present and I have often seen her there when the weather was either too cold or too hot for people much younger in years. She never neglected her church or Lord. She knew the plea of the church to which she belonged much better than many preachers of today know it. She loved that plea because she believed it to be the plea of Jesus Christ and believed that it was in harmony with the spoken words of her Lord. She knew the Bible and could repeat it from memory with great freedom. She was a practical Christian, generous to a fault and with an evenness of temper that was the envy of all who knew her. Few people have ever carried more sunshine in their lives than did she. She was always smiling and it was a smile that remained with her always, through rain and through sunshine, through sickness and through health. There are a very few people in this great world of whom there will be more certainty about their future than that of our dear old Sister Hoke.

Her pew at the church will be empty and she will be missed there by a host of men and women who had learned to get religious inspiration out of her life. She will be missed by a host of friends who knew her in her home relation and she will be missed by a great number of relatives who lean upon her for their spiritual support and for the inspiration that she brought into their lives to carry the mission of love into other lives.
